ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF STATE
WASHINGTON

August 20, 1982

Dear John:

The Africa Bureau will host a five-day Chiefs of Mission Conference in Washington the week of Labor Day, September 6-10. It will be the first convocation of U.S. ambassadors and charges from that region in four years and their first meeting together under the new administration. For much of the week, our North Africa ambassadors will also be in attendance. We hope to make that time informative and stimulating for them (and for us), reviewing foreign policy issues and challenges of Africa-wide and, in many instances, global importance.

We are pleased that you can address the fifty-odd ambassadors and charges on security concerns in Africa at the Loy Henderson on Friday, September 10 at 11:15 a.m. Our chiefs of mission would welcome an update on the Washington policy environment. You may wish to be accompanied by someone familiar with African operations to assist in fielding questions. Your remarks might include an overview of U.S. policy under the Reagan administration. Lastly, fully half of the time allotted should be left open for questions and comments from the audience.

I look forward to seeing you September 10.

Sincerely,

Chester A. Crocker

Mr. John McMahon,
Deputy Director,
Central Intelligence Agency,
Washington, D.C. 20505.
